SPECIALTY CIDERS

ABOUT EDEN

Eden's mission is to support the agricultural working landscape of Vermont, both in our holistic estate orchards as well as through our Vermont orchard partners. Cider specific apples are pressed once a year at harvest and aged before bottling. Our ciders are unique and innovative, respecting the rare tannic and heirloom apples we use, and requiring minimal intervention.

Golden Russet is a versatile traditional American apple variety, descended from English russet cider varieties. We've opted to present this particular collection of Golden Russets as a still cider to offer greater opportunity to study this variety year after year (cider verticals, anyone?). Pour this one like a full bodied white wine--the popping tropical fruit notes against herbacious undertones make it easy to crush on its own or paired with harvest fare.
